FATALLY INJURED.

Robert C. Graham, of This County, Struck by the C. & A. Hummer

AT BLOOMINGTON, ILL., AND RECEIVES INJURIES FROM WHICH HE MAY NOT RECOVER.

On His Way to Chicago With Stock, Mr. Graham Meets With a Fatal Accident—Wife, Brothers and Friends Grieve for Him.

Bedside.

The terrible news was received here Tuesday night about 9 o'clock that Robert C. Graham, well known over this section of the State as a large stock buyer and shipper, met with an accident at Bloomington, Ill., late Tuesday evening that most probably will prove fatal. About all the particulars there are regarding the accident are told in a few words: Mr. Graham was on his way to Chicago with a lot of stock and when the freight he was on arrived at Bloomington he got off to get something to eat. In crossing the railroad track at the Union Depot he was struck by the Chicago & Alton Hummer coming this way, but in what manner he is injured is not at this writing known. That he is badly hurt is a certainty and cannot survive the injury is most probable, judging from a telegram received from his brother, E. D. Graham, who left Tuesday night for Bloomington immediately upon receipt of the terrible news. The dispatch in question stated there was little or no hope for the survival of the injured man. Mrs. Graham left on the noon train yesterday for Bloomington with the hope of seeing her husband alive. Mr. R. M. White also left for the same place to render any assistance deemed necessary.

The accident is greatly to be deplored, as Mr. Graham is one of Andrain's most useful and energetic citizens, favorably known by almost everybody in this section. It is a sad stroke to his family, even if death does not result.

Mr. Graham is 45 years of age and married Miss Lucy Morris, a daughter of the late Judge Jno. B. Morris. The result of this union is eight children, as follows: John B., who is in business in Chicago, Effie, the eldest daughter, who is in Texas, Alida, Will, Dick, George, Hughes and Payton.

Mr. Graham owns and resides on the old Morris homestead, two miles south of town, and is in affluent circumstances financially.

It is to be hoped the accident will not result fatally.

The LaGrange Lumber Co., formerly sold lumber dealers, now gives the consumer, through its many branch yards, the advantage of securing goods at low prices. One profit saved.

The following letter to Mr. H. C. Eagon, one of the proprietors of the Windsor Hotel, regarding Mexico securing the military encampment, will be read with interest and is explanatory within itself:

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 29.—My DEAR FRIEND: I was so much surprised by the other day that I could not say to you that Mr. Bartlett, our adjutant, would write at the earliest moment and fully explain to you the situation and conditions so you could speak intelligently to those of your booming citizens who will take an active interest in the matter and thus benefit themselves financially. The first regiment is about 400 strong, and it is fair to presume that two thirds of that number will attend, besides the large number of honorary members and friends who are always anxious to get out on a trip with such a jolly set of boys as you know we are.

If we were to go far away none of the boys would care to leave home and make a tiresome journey on a railroad train, but Mexico being so convenient I think most of them would go. Mr. Bartlett is a very busy man but I will stir him up in a few days.

J. G. PRENDERGAST.

You are saving one profit by buying of LaGrange Lumber Co.

A Verdict For $3,000.

Jno. M. Barker, Esq., writes the LEDGER from Danville that Miss Bettie Sira yesterday obtained judgment for $3,000 against the Wabash Railroad Company. Miss Sira, it will be remembered, was the victim of Dick Dusenberry's lust, she receiving terrible treatment at his hands in Montgomery City, the facts of which need not be repeated here. The suit just decided in Miss Sira's favor is the result of the conductor not carrying her to the station for which she was destined—Benton City, this county. As the night train did not stop at Benton, Miss Sira was introduced by Conductor Reach to get off at Montgomery, at which place Dusenberry so maltreated her, and for which crime he was sentenced to 35 years in the penitentiary. Dusenberry is now in jail this city awaiting the action of Judge Hughes in the matter of filing a bill of exception to the Supreme Court.

Don't buy without first calling on LaGrange Lumber Co.

Jno. T. Mabry and family arrived to-day from Vandalia and will at once locate on Mr. Mabry's recent purchase—the Field place, just east of town. The LEDGER extends a hearty welcome to the new comers and recommends Mr. Mabry as a good business man and a thorough gentleman in every respect, himself, wife and two interesting daughters being worthy and refined people.

PROF. WILLIAMS TALKS.

The Authorities of Hardin College Running to Earth the Origin of the Scandalous Publication.

Prof. Williams, who went over to Fulton a few days ago to investigate the origin of the dirty publication scandalizing Hardin College, which appeared recently in the columns of the Globe of this city, was seen to-day by a LEDGER reporter concerning the matter of investigation and prosecution for criminal libel, and in substance, said:

"I went to Fulton to ascertain the facts, if possible, in the case. I found Frank Craig, editor of the Fulton Globe, who said he had obtained all his information from Jay Norris, of Mexico. Mr. Craig said: 'Mr. Norris and I were standing together when the girls of Hardin College passed and he said, I have something to tell you. When the girls were gone by he told me the main features of the article in question. I asked him if he could not be mistaken. He said no, it was a fact.' Craig said that he had no wrong purpose in publishing the article, and that he would publish another article in one of the Fulton papers, stating that he had been misled and is now satisfied that there is no truth in the report."

"Prof. Yancey and I saw Mr. Norris and he admits that he gave Craig all the main points of said article, but not as something he knew, but as something he had heard. He said he had heard it from several, but could then think of only one name. He promised to try to think of the others and give their names. The party he did name denies the charge. Mr. Norris was asked if it might not be possible that he had heard this of some other college and had misunderstood the name. He said, 'no; I heard it of Hardin College.'"

"As to whether we shall prosecute the parties, I do not care to say," Prof. Williams added.

Other people save money by buying of LaGrange Lumber Co., besides getting better goods. Why should you not do the same?

Congressman Norton.

Hon. R. H. Norton, writes from Washington to Wm. Vivion, a member of the executive committee of the Benton City Democratic Club, in regard to "stumping" the county with Hon. Champ Clark, and among things said:

"Nothing would afford me more pleasure than to say I would accept your invitation, but the question is simply this: Shall I abandon my duties here and go to Andrain to look after my private interest, or, having been elected to the important position I now fill and having accepted it, shall I stay here and attend to the interests of my people. I know that my own interests demand that I should canvass Andrain but it is clear that it is my duty to remain here, at least for the present. If it is possible for me to arrange to make a short canvass in your county, without neglecting my duties here, I shall certainly do so, but I do not believe now that I am going to be able to leave."

I have written you thus fully in order that you may understand the exact situation, and that you may know that if I do not visit Andrain it will be simply because I cannot. I shall consult again with Mr. Carlisle, Mr. Crisp and others of our leaders here, and if at any time they think I can safely leave here, I shall certainly visit Andrain.

"Again thanking you for your kindness and courtesy, I am, Respectfully,
R. H. NORTON."

THE BOOK DON'T TEACH IT.

Theological Definition Given to Hell at the Present Time Does Not Express Its True Meaning.

Another Correspondent Believes in No Existence After Death for the Wicked and Consequently Thinks There is no Hell.

To the Editor of the Ledger.

MEXICO, Mo., April 28.—Your Saturday's paper contained two answers to my inquiry about hell and the devil, in which affirmative ground was boldly assumed. These gentlemen ought to know what they are saying, because they claim to be teachers in Israel. I hope they may not prove to be "blind leading the blind." Let us see, first, about hell: There are two Greek words translated by the word hell in the English version of the New Testament—first, Gehenna; second, Hades. Benjamin Wilson, in the Emphatic Diaglott, in the appendix, says: "The word Gehenna, translated hell in the common version, occurs twelve times. It is the Grecian mode of spelling the Hebrew words, which are translated 'The Valley of Hinnom.' This valley was also called Tophet, a detestation, an abomination. In this place were cast all kinds of filth, with the carcasses of beasts and the unburied bodies of criminals who had been executed. Continual fires were kept to consume these. Sennacherib's army of 185,000 men was slain here in one night. Here children were also burnt to death in sacrifice to Moloch. Gehenna, then, in the New Testament symbolizes death and utter destruction, but in no place signifies a place of 'eternal torment.' So much for the word Gehenna. The same authority says of Hades: 'It occurs eleven times in the Greek New Testament and is improperly translated ten times by the word hell. It is the word used in the Septuagint as a translation of the Hebrew word sheol, denoting the abode or world of the dead, and means, literally, invisible or obscure. As the word Hades did not come to the Hebrews from any classical source or with any classical meaning, but through the Septuagint as a translation of their word sheol, which, in the Septuagint, is translated 60 out of 63 times by the word Hades, and may signify the grave as the common receptacle of the dead; yet it has the more general meaning of death. To translate Hades by the word hell, as it is done ten times out of eleven in the New Testament, is very improper, unless it has the Saxon meaning of 'to cover up.' The primitive signification of hell, only denoting what was secret or concealed, perfectly corresponds with the Greek term Hades and its Hebrew equivalent sheol; but the theological definition given to it at the present day by no means expresses it."

From which we conclude that the Hades of the New Testament is the grave, and the Gehenna of the same book is the vale of Hinnom, where all the filth of Jerusalem was cremated, and this would pretty effectually eliminate the New Testament of all modern or ancient theological thunder and lightning about a place where men and women may be burned through the ceaseless cycles of eternity without consuming them. No gentlemen, the book don't teach it. Preachers all say hell is a bottomless pit; then certainly there is no standing room there, and if the laws of attraction and gravitation are in force there, the miserable hypocrites who take the leap will have a long uninterrupted jump. Sam Patch at Niagara was not a "patchin'."

Paul says: "The wicked shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of God and the glory of His power." This means total annihilation to the wicked and nothing less or more and will be instantaneous. He wiped out the antediluvians in short order after Noah's boat was finished, and in like manner He will do a short work on the wicked after the final judgment. If you are sentenced you will go up as quickly as a cork wrings the head off of a chicken in the back yard. We advise you, as a friend, to stand from under. Lastly, about the devil: Preachers represent him as chief executive officer of the bottomless pit. His abode has no door or bottom. He is not a real "on tireless wing." This proves too much and by a rule of logic proves nothing. Benjamin Wilson also says devil, from diabolos, occurs some thirty times and means a slanderer, a traducer, a false accuser. Paul used the word in the plural number three times—first, Tim. 3:1; second, Tim. 3:3; Titus 2:3, and applies it to both males and females. This corresponds with the idea exactly that there are numbers of devils now on the earth, both male and female. If devil means a slanderer, a traducer, false accuser, then the slanderer, the divorcee, the adulteress, the grand juror for perjury and general conundrums, shows that the Apostle James was right when he said: "Every man is tempted when he is drawn away of his own lust and enticed, and lust, when it is conceived, brings forth sin, and sin, when it is finished, brings forth death—banishment from God, total annihilation." We would like to see learned divines if the devil they preach about is omnipresent.

Old Fogey.

NO EXISTENCE AFTER DEATH FOR THE WICKED AND NO HELL.

To the Editor of the Ledger.

MEXICO, Mo., April 28.—Reading the ideas of some of our worthy pastors regarding hell, would you kindly permit me to state that the answers are, in my opinion, extremely indefinite. Besides, they do not make clear what, in their opinion, hell is. If they understand hell to be nothing, I, of course, must agree with them. For I cannot believe that a loving Father would place his children under the influence of eternal pain or endurance.

Permit me to give some quotations from the Bible that clearly indicate that the wicked will die, will be destroyed, will be no more, will know nothing, will have no individuality, no consciousness—their souls and bodies will be no more.

Rom. 6:23—"The wages of sin is death."

Rom. 9:21—"The end of those things is death."

Phil. 3:19—"Whose end is destruction."

2nd Peter, 2:12—"They 'shall utterly perish.'"

Matt. 10:28—"He is able to destroy both soul and body."

Eze. 18:20—"The soul that sinneth, it shall die."

Eze. 18:26—"For his iniquity that he hath done shall he die."

Eze. 18:31—"I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth."

Eze. 18:4-25—"The soul that sinneth, it shall die." "For his iniquity that he hath done shall he die."

Eze. 33:14—"Thou shalt surely die."

Deut. 13:9—"I have set before you life and death."

Ecol. 9:5—"The dead know not anything." "The dead are asleep."

Prov. 15:10—"He that hateth reproach shall die."

Prov. 19:16—"He that despiseth his ways shall die."

Prov. 13:13—"They shall be destroyed."

Prov. 10:29—"Destruction shall be to them."

James 5:20—"Shall save his soul from death."

James 1:15—"Sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death."

Ps. 145:20—"All the wicked will be destroyed."

Ps. 101:8—"I will destroy all the wicked."

Ps. 37:38—"The transgressors shall be destroyed."

Ps. 29:7—"They shall be destroyed."

Job 31:3—"Is not destruction to the wicked?"

Isa. 10:25—"The indignation shall cease, and mine anger in their destruction."

2nd Thess. 1:9—"They shall be punished with everlasting destruction."

These are only a few of the many similar passages in the Bible which positively indicate that for the wicked there is no existence after death, and no hell.

CRAGHEAD AND LAWS.

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"Uncle Jimmy" Craghead, of the Kingdom of Callaway, whose marriage the other day at the age of 81 to a charming widow of 60 called out the inhabitants thereof, refuses to fall in line with modern science. He has never seen the curve of the earth and therefore, he sticks to it that it is flat. He would positively assert also that there is rich soil all the way through that part of it on which Callaway county is located. There is a tradition up there that ex-President Laws of the State University went to Fulton for the express purpose of converting "Uncle Jimmy" to the globular theory, and after several hours of hard talking left with his confidence in science and himself badly shaken. But it is a strange commentary on human consistency that while Mr. Craghead firmly believes that the earth is flat he just as firmly believes that "This love that makes the world go round."

The Moberly Headlight says the Birney-Ditler debate on baptism at Booneville waxed very warm before its close. The people who believed in immersion and those who believed in sprinkling are just where they were before the controversy begun, and nobody learned anything from the discussion that will make them any wiser or better.

The man who blows out the gas has a rival. He recently stopped over night at a Michigan hotel and the smell of burning gas promptly led a search for him. After rapping up several guests this man finally peered out of the darkness of his room and confessed that he had tied a towel around the electric lights and it had scorched it. "I tried to blow it out," he said, "but it wouldn't go out."

NOT WRITTEN IN MEXICO.

The Fulton Globe Likely to be Prosecuted for Slander.

Prof. Williams Will Make a Statement in the Ledger at an Early Day.

We clip the following from the Fulton Sun of Saturday:

The gentleman from Mexico, connected with Hardin College, was in our city yesterday in regard to the article that appeared in the Globe in reference to that institution. We understand Frank Craig, publisher of the Globe, the name of the writer and he will be prosecuted for the contemptible article will receive his deserts.

The article from the Fulton Globe referred to is the following:

MEXICO, Mo., April 28.—This usually quiet little town has been the scene of one of "hide and seek" during the last few weeks, and the girls of the town have done their share of devilment. A few nights since, while all the girls were at church, one of the girls at Hardin College decided to have a little amusement while her companions were away. She soon obtained some cork and charcoal with which she blackened her face, hands and arms. After doing this the lively maiden quietly slipped out of the building and went to town where she came in contact with several boys of her acquaintance, but who failed to recognize her. She gave to them a note that she had prepared for the occasion and which was signed by one of the Hardin pupils. The letter stated that the young lady would like to see the boys at the college parlor that night, for the purpose of having a good time generally. The boys answered by saying that they would go, and that the young ladies could expect them. The girls that had blackened ed herself hastened back to the school, where she quickly removed the cork and charcoal, and prepared to receive the young gentlemen, who soon arrived. The boys enjoyed themselves quite "swimmingly," and so interested were all that they forgot that it was getting somewhat late, and that the other girls and teachers would be back from church. And they did return very soon, much to the discomfort of the gang. The president succeeded in keeping one of the boys over the head with a chair during the melee, and the others succeeded in escaping by the window route.

Your correspondent has so far failed to learn the names of the parties, but expects to in time for next issue. It is also rumored that the young lady who did the negro act will be expelled.

The Mexico readers of the Saturday Globe can look for something interesting next week.

The gentleman who went to Fulton to investigate the matter is Prof. Williams, of Hardin College, who says he will have a statement about the matter for to-morrow's LEDGER. As a matter of fact the article was not written in Mexico at all, but we are informed was written by Frank Craig, the editor of the paper in Fulton. Craig claims to have gotten the statements in regard to the matter from Jay Norris, a young man of this city. Jay says he never told Craig any such stuff as he published.

Such an occurrence, we are informed, did take place in a female college not a thousand miles away, but not in Hardin College. President Yancey has consulted with an attorney in regard to prosecuting Craig, but has not made up his mind yet what he will do.

OPPOSES A STATE FAIR.

A. B. Medley's Position on the Question of Establishing a State Fair Association.

To A. J. Douglas, Chairman, and Thomas Brown, Secretary, Benton City Democratic Club.

LADDONIA, Mo., April 28.—In reply to the request of your club for candidates for Representative to publicly state their position on the question of establishing a State Fair, I desire to say that I am unqualifiedly opposed to the proposition.

Missouri now has the most complete Fair in the United States, while throughout the State are to be found numerous county and district associations. I know of no demand among the people for a Fair to be established and maintained by appropriations from the State Treasury. A Fair thus maintained is too apt to build up a system of favoritism that will ultimately prove unsatisfactory to those most interested.

I do not believe in the principle of the Nation or State assuming control of enterprises which properly belong to the individual citizen and should be elected to the Legislature I should oppose all such bills.

A. B. MEDLEY.

Obituary.

Died, in this city Sunday morning, April 27, 1890, Mrs. Mary W. Stewart, daughter of the late H. S. Crahan. Deceased had been a sufferer for sometime, but was confined to her bed only a few days previous to her demise. When the announcement came that her soul had fled from earth it was not a surprise. The funeral services were conducted by Elder W. B. Taylor, after which the remains were deposited in its last resting place at Thompson Station. "Earth to its narrow home beneath, soul to its place on high."

Rest, weary sister, rest! Thy soul, rest, weary rest! Thy soul, rest, weary rest! Thy soul, rest, weary rest! Thy soul, rest, weary rest!

MANFIELD KING.

The Self-Confessed Murderer Awaiting Trial at Clayton.

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Manfield King, the confessed murderer and horse-th
